Corrine Griffin began her career in public service as a member of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU), working for the Boston Police Department. She spent more than three decades as a community organizer in Dorchester, Massachusetts, focusing on advocating for children's programming and neighborhood improvement, and raising her three children; the oldest of whom is a member of the Executive Board of IAFF Local 718, serving on Engine 21 in Boston.

Corrine spent eight years as executive assistant to David G. Mugar, chair and chief executive officer of Mugar Enterprises Inc., where she worked with city and state officials to coordinate programming. She brought her experience in organizing to the IAFF in January 2017 when she joined the staff as executive assistant to General Secretary-Treasurer Ed Kelly.
